ABOUT AGMARKET.NET®

AgMarket.Net®, the Farm Division of John Stewart & Associates, is a forward-thinking agricultural marketing and consulting firm. Our team has strategically but selectively grown to nearly three dozen seasoned hedging strategists with decades of experience. That understanding, proximity throughout the country, and knowledge of risk-management strategies benefits clients maneuvering through volatile markets.

Secured by a mission of integrity, our dedicated team helps farmers, producers, hedgers and various commercial entities through consulting and risk-management strategies. We are able to customize plans and shepherd you through a proven approach, engineered to help meet your farm-marking price-risk management goals.

AgMarket.Net® operates on key pillars which define our firm's core values and approach to agricultural consulting and price-risk management. Those pillars are integrity, faith and family, priority and fairness.
