AgMarket.Net® Announces Additional Executive

AgMarket.Net® Consulting, LLC is adding another partner.

Jacob Burks will join Matt Bennett, Bill Biedermann, Jim McCormick and Brian Splitt as an executive of the company. The transition took effect on April 5.

The co-founders say Burks is the right fit for the leadership addition due to his drive to move the company forward, innovative ideas for the future and dedication in an effort to help the American farmer market commodities.

“Jacob has demonstrated his skills in leadership, strategic planning and the ability to effectively lead others,” says co-founder Jim McCormick. “He is an experienced business leader who brings some new perspective to the table for us. We are excited for what’s to come.”

Burks is located in the Lancaster, Wisconsin office. The Arkansas native has been involved in the commodity business since 2006 and has held positions as a marketing director, hedging strategist and broker within the industry. He earned his Bachelor of Science in Agriculture Business from Arkansas Tech University and Master of Business Administration from Southeastern Oklahoma State University.

“I joined AgMarket.Net® because of the company’s true passion to help the producer market grain and livestock in a more efficient way,” says AgMarket.Net® partner Jacob Burks. “I have discovered the co-founders also have an emphasis in making the team better, offering opportunities for growth and success from within, and building a dynamite team with brokers who have extraordinary talents and abilities. I’m excited to be a part of this leadership.”

AgMarket.Net® has 12 offices located throughout the country. The company is the Farm Division of John Stewart & Associates. JSA is a forward-thinking agricultural marketing, consulting firm and full-service commodity brokerage based out of St. Joseph, MO.
